TRACY COSTER

Over the Years I have reviewed Tracy and Stan's albums as they have come out, and had the pleasure of having been to many of the shows as they toured through the country towns of Queensland.

It was always a great night of song and stories from Stan Coster on Henry Lawson and Banjo Patterson, and Tracy always had some great country songs ready, while Stan's wife Dot manned the door and sold the product.

Visitors who attended the shows would probably be like me and never forget those simple, easy-to-listen-to great nights?

The passing away of Stan Coster and his lovely wife Dot was a very sad moment for country music.

However, Tracy Coster has taken all those great songs and, together with some of the finest musicians in the land, has released 17 Stan Coster songs filled with emotion and some of the finest vocals that I have ever heard from her.

All of Stan's big songs are here, and just when the album is near the end, a tear comes to the eye when Stan suddenly appears on the recording doing a duet with Tracy – "Homestead Of My Dreams".

Also featured are duets with Adam Harvey, Lee Kernaghan, Anne Kirkpatrick and John Williamson.
